When God created humanity, He proclaimed that it was “not good for man to be alone.” Allender and Longman write, “God does not exclusively fill the human heart. He made mankind to need more than himself. The staggering humility of God to make something that was not to be fully satisfied with the Creator and the creation is incomprehensible” (Intimate Allies). Incomprehensible, but true. We need one another. – Tim Keller, Why Fellowship Groups at Redeemer.

May God grant us joy as we strive earnestly to follow the way of discipleship. May we be enabled to say "No" to sin and "Yes" to the sinner. May we withstand our foes, and yet hold out to them the Word of the gospel which woos and wins the souls of men. – Dietrich Bonhoeffer
